

AMERICAN WON THE MARATHON

Sensational Finish to One of World's Greatest Races.

HAYES GIVEN THE LAUREL

First Award Was Given to the Italian, Dorando, Who Had to Be Assisted Across the Line, but Upon Proper Protest the Right of the American Who Came in Unaided Was Recognized by the Judges—Scene at the Culmination of Race May Lead to the Final Cessation of This Form of Heart-Breaking Athletics.

London, July 25.—It would be no exaggeration in the minds of any of the 100,000 spectators who witnessed the finishing struggle of the Marathon race at the Olympian arena Friday to say that it was the most thrilling athletic event that has occurred since that Marathon race in ancient Greece where the victor fell at the goal and with a wave of triumph, died.

The veteran athletes of Europe, America, Africa and Australia, who have seen the greatest struggle of every sort on land and water for athletic supremacy, declared that there was nothing comparable to the great race within their memories or in the other Olympiads since the modern cycle of these began.

It was a spectacle the like of which none living had ever seen, and none who saw it expect ever to see repeated. The race itself with fifty-eight of the best men winnowed from the runners of four continents competing; the arena where it was finished in the presence of an enormous cosmopolitan assemblage, with the queen of England, the royal representatives of several nations and hosts of finely dressed men and women from the most fashionable circles of Europe, as well as several thousand Americans, and the dramatic and exciting denouement at the end combined to make an historic day.

It was an American day, and the sentiments of Thursday, which rankled strongly in the breasts of Americans here when they came to the stadium were forgotten, not only in the victory of John F. Hayes, the Irish-American Athletic club runner, but in the splendid record made by the other Americans who were well to the front in the line of those that finished.

Since the beginning of the Olympic games the great rivalry has been between England and America, and while the minor competitions on the track and field, in which the two nations specialized, were fought out, Englishmen consoled themselves for all the American successes by the thought that in the domain of long-distance running they always had been supreme and whatever prizes they failed to grasp in this the Colonials would pick up. The sequel may be told briefly. Six Americans started in the Marathon race and nine English runners. Of the first ten men to reach the coveted goal, four were Americans, and they are officially placed as follows: Hayes, first; Joseph Forshaw, Missouri A. C., third; A. R. Welton, Lawrence, Y. M. C. A., fourth, and Lewis Tewinina, the Carlisle Indian, ninth. The second man was Hefferon of South Africa. He was the oldest among the runners, having thirty-four years to his credit, and he made a remarkable pace almost to the end of the twenty-six miles of the struggle, but Hayes was the better man. Friends of Hefferon explain that he is at his best at forty miles, and that yesterday's event was too short for him, but certainly he is one of the most wonderful runners in the world.

The first Englishman who crossed the line came in twelfth. He was W. T. Clarke, and was not one of those counted upon to win. Duncan, the former English champion, who won the preliminary English trial, fell out at the twelfth mile, and, like several other contestants, was taken into a motor car and brought to the stadium.

It is considered generally that the race is not only a triumph for the United States but, in a large sense for America, because seven of the leaders at the end were from North America. The three Canadians, Wood, the Indian, Simpson, and Lawson finished fifth, sixth and seventh respectively, and with the representatives of the United States, deprived England of its claim to leadership in the long-distance running branch of athletics.

It will not snatch any laurels from the brow of Hayes, who won a good race, to say that the hero of the day was the Italian Dorando. The admiration and sympathy of every person in the stadium went out to the gallant Italian who, although he did not win deserved to win and did more within the limit of his powers than any other man who ran. The crisis in a battle on which the life of a nation hung could hardly have been more impressive than Dorando's entrance into the stadium. Ten minutes before the megaphone announced "The runners are in sight," guns had proclaimed the arrival of the leaders at the nearest station of the course; an intense silence overhung the stadium while the thousands awaited breathlessly the approach of the first man.

For ten minutes all eyes were focussed on the gate almost directly opposite the royal stand, where the contestants were to enter. Finally, after what seemed to be an intolerable suspense, a runner staggered down the incline leading to the track. He was clothed in a white shirt and red knickerbockers. He stood for a moment as though dazed and then turned to the left, although a red cord had been drawn about the track in the opposite direction for the runners to follow. It was evident also to everyone that the man was practically delirious. A squad of officials ran out and expostulated with him, but apparently he was afraid that they were trying to deceive him, and fought to go on to the left. At length he turned about and started on the right path along the track. Then followed an exhibition never to be forgotten by anyone who witnessed it.

The colors and the number told the spectators that it was Dorando, and his name was on every lip. He staggered along the cinder path like a man in a dream, his gait being neither a walk nor a run, but simply a flounder, with arms shaking and legs tottering. By devious ways he went on. People had lost thought of his nationality and partisanship was forgotten. They rose in their seats and saw only this small man clad in red pants, tottering onward with his head so bent forward that the chin rested on his chest. They knew nothing of him, as he had not been mentioned among the probable winners, but they realized that his struggle must have been a terrific one to bring him thus right to the threshold of victory.

Dorando staggered on toward the turn and dropped to the ground. Immediately a crowd of track officials and followers swarmed about him. It was evident that the man, with undaunted courage, had run himself to the very limit of endurance. None expected to see him rise, for, haggard and drawn, he had fallen like a good soldier when the last degree of vitality was exhausted.

According to the rules of the race physicians should have taken him away, but the track officials, lost in their sympathy for such a man and for such an effort, lifted him to his feet and with their hands at his back, gave him support. Four times Dorando fell in the 300 yards that separated him from the finish, and three times after the doctors had poured stimulants down his throat he was dragged to his feet and finally was pushed across the line with one man at his back and another holding him by the arm.

His part in the race for all practical purposes was ended when he entered the stadium, for unless he received assistance he could not have finished. While this pathetic scene was being enacted, the American, Hayes, entered the stadium comparatively fresh and trotted around. He came in less than a minute behind Dorando, but in the excitement of the moment failed to get even from his own countrymen the reception he deserved.

It is a question whether public opinion will ever support another Marathon race here. Dorando's condition when he finished and the condition of many of the contestants in the event lead people to think it is worse than prize fighting or bull fighting.

The American athletes are sending to Italy their congratulations on Dorando's magnificent fight for victory. Happiness returned to the American camp and the officials, athletes and everybody in any way connected with the team are celebrating the great victory won by Hayes in the Marathon race. They have forgotten all the troubles of the past two weeks in this moment of triumph.

"Wasn't it great?" said Manager Halpin, who continued: "We not only won the big race of the Olympic games but also got third, fourth and ninth places, and, what is more, our Indian beat the much-lauded Canadian Indian, Longboat. Well, we can forget what has happened before, although we will always feel that we have been unfairly treated."

THE OUTLOOK FOR TRADE

Bradstreet's Review Shows a Growing Confidence.

New York, July 25.—Bradstreet's weekly review of trade today says: Good crop reports, the advance of the season, and growth in confidence as to the trade outlook are reflected in reports of moderate enlargement of future buying at a few large centers, notably in the West and Southwest. Industrial lines, too, have been benefited by evidences of revival in demand, and the number of idle operatives has been reduced as a whole. Still the progress making is of a very conservative kind, curtailment of industry is still a marked feature, and small orders for immediate shipment largely make up the volume of business doing by jobbers. Retail trade is fair as a whole, being stimulated by price-reduction sales, though complaint of stocks not moving rapidly come from some cities, and collections show little if any improvement. Best reports come from the central West, Northwest and Southwest, and the excellent outlook for the cotton crop makes for a better tone of advices from the South.

AT THE POINT OF THE BAYONET

It Is Thus Chafin Would Enforce Prohibition Laws

Chicago, July 25.—Eugene W. Chafin, presidential nominee of the Prohibition party, is discussing campaign issues as they bear on the Prohibition platform in the towns adjacent to Chicago.

"If I am elected president of the United States," he said in one of his speeches, "I will have a congress which will pass a prohibitory law, and if there are any communities that refuse to obey the law, and the civic authorities are unable to enforce it, I shall use the power conferred upon me by the constitution and call out the militia, the standing army, and the navy and enforce prohibition on every inch of territory under the American flag."

EUGENE W. CHAFIN.

A Woman's Back

Has many aches and pains caused by weakness and falling, or other displacement, of the pelvic organs. Other symptoms of female weakness are frequent headache, dizziness, imaginary specks or dark spots floating before the eyes, gnawing sensation in stomach, dragging or bearing down in lower abdominal or pelvic organs, disagreeable drains from pelvic organs, faint spells with general weakness.

If any considerable number of the above symptoms are present there is no remedy that will give quicker relief or a more permanent cure than Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It has a record of over forty years of cures. It is the most potent invigorating tonic and strengthening medicine known to medical science. It is made of the glyceric extracts of native medicinal roots found in our forests and contains not a drop of alcohol or harmful, or habit-forming drugs. Its ingredients are all printed on the bottle wrapper and attested under oath as correct.

Every ingredient entering into "Favorite Prescription" has the written endorsement of the most eminent medical writers of all the several schools of practice—more valuable than any amount of non-professional testimonials—though the latter are not lacking, having been contributed voluntarily by grateful patients in numbers to exceed the endorsements given to any other medicine extant for the cure of woman's ills.

You cannot afford to accept any medicine of unknown composition as a substitute for this well proven remedy or known composition, even though the dealer may make a little more profit thereby. Your interest in regaining health is paramount to any selfish interest of his and it is an insult to your intelligence for him to try to palm off upon you a substitute. You know what you want and it is his business to supply the article called for.

RALPH CONNOR

The Story of the Man and His Books
In the Highland settlement of Glengarry, in the heart of a Canadian forest, Rev. Charles W. Gordon, better known to the reading world as Ralph Connor, was born in 1860. In his career, the markings of heredity and environment are more manifest than in most men, as some hands show the veins more strongly than others.
To the virility, intenseness, individuality and friend-making genius of his father, Rev. Daniel Gordon, a Scotch preacher and teller of stories in the primitive pioneer days of Canada's backwoods forty years ago, was united in him the sympathy, mental keenness, literary temperament, spiritual insight and hunger for helpfulness that distinguished his mother.
In the woods through which he went to school, and where his early childhood days were spent, he grew into that close reverent love and communion with Nature that has become part of his very life, and pulsates through all his pages. At eleven, the removal of his family to another section gave him better school advantages, and prepared him for his course at Toronto University. He earned money in the fields to pay for his education; he was not a hard student, but passed his examinations seemingly by instinct. After a three years' course at Knox College, where prizes and scholarships dropped into his hands when he was not looking, he spent a year in Edinburgh and on the Continent to gain back his fleeting health.
On his return he went to Banff, the National Park of Canada, inhaling the pure, clear air of the mountains and the spiritual atmosphere that seemed nearer to God because nearer to unspoiled Nature. On Sundays he preached in the little Presbyterian Church to an audience of villagers and tourists, and it was while a home missionary in the Northwest that he grew discouraged over the small appropriation made for the work among the miners. His friend, the editor of "The Westminster" of Toronto, invited him to wage his war for funds through the pages of his paper, and, in accepting, Mr. Gordon decided that a strongly human story might win its way to the hearts and purses of the people.
The story was "Black Rock," that virile, crisp series of pictures of life in the mining camps, that made their author famous. Then came "The Sky Pilot," "The Man From Glengarry," "Beyond the Marshes" and "The Prospector," all tingling with vitality—stories tender, humorous, picturesque, pathetic, strenuous in action and simple in thought.

YOUNG TURKS DO A GOOD JOB

After Years of Struggle They Bring Sultan to Time.

HE GRANTS A CONSTITUTION

To the Surprise of All Observers of the Progress of Events in Turkey, Abdul Hamid Wakes Up to the Realization of the Fact That His Last Prop Had Been Knocked Out From Under Him—With Army Refusing to Do His Autocratic Will, He Found It Time to Grant Popular Concessions.

Constantinople, July 25.—After thirty-two years of autocratic rule under Sultan Abdul Hamid II., Turkey again has been granted a constitution. An imperial irade has been issued ordaining that a chad be assembled. This present constitution is practically a restoration of the one proclaimed Dec. 23, 1876, by the present sultan immediately following his elevation to the sultanate, after the death of Sultan Abdul Aziz, June 4 of that year and the deposition of Sultan Murad V., on Aug. 31, 1876.

This action on the part of the sultan, which came as a complete surprise to all observers of the progress of events in Turkey, was wrested from him by the Young Turks, a political party that has been working for a good many years for the establishment of a constitutional government in the realm of the sultan. Last fall the Young Turks and representatives of the various races and creeds in Macedonia, met in Paris and decided to concentrate their energies on bringing about a government for Turkey that should be modeled on the Western system. The efforts to this end were characterized by a quiet determination, and few people were aware to what extent the propaganda had flourished and taken root. About ten days ago there began to come reports of mutinies among the Turkish troops in Macedonia, and it was declared that the Young Turks had succeeded in winning over 90 per cent of the Turkish army officers to their cause. This was cutting the ground out from under the sultan's feet, and the last straw was broken when the sultan learned that the wild people of the Albanian country would support him no longer, but had joined the Liberal movement and were calling loudly for constitutional reforms. Then suddenly the sultan decided to bow to the inevitable rather than face the alternative, a revolutionary outbreak throughout all Macedonia.

Up to the present day Turkey has been a "theocratic absolute monarchy," subject to the direct personal control of the sultan, who has been at once temporal autocrat and recognized khalif, or successor of the prophet, and consequently spiritual head of the Moslem world. This theocratic absolutism has been tempered not only by traditional usage, local privileges, the judicial and spiritual precepts of the Koran and its Ulema interpreters and the privy council, but also by the growing force of public opinion and the direct and indirect pressure of the powers of Europe.

TOO MANY FIRES

Alleged Pyromaniac Convicted by an Ohio Jury.

Bellefontaine, O., July 25.—George R. Gamble was found guilty of arson by a jury after an hour's deliberation. The fire marshals of Ohio, Illinois and Colorado, besides the representatives of nearly every insurance company in the United States were here in attendance at the trial.

Numbers of witnesses from western states testified to numerous fires that followed in Gamble's wake while he was in Illinois and Colorado.

After the defendant was first arrested and released in $800 bonds, he left the state, and was captured nearly a year afterward in Los Angeles, Cal. Gamble was charged with burning a mill in this county in October 1906 and collecting the insurance. The fire marshal, through witnesses from Illinois, Indiana, Colorado, California and several other states, undertook to show that a total of seventeen fires within recent years have been laid at the door of Gamble.

Lost Life Under Train.

North Vernon, Ind., July 25.—Samuel Ryckman, a middle-aged man, while "dead-heading" his way from Louisville, Ky., to this city, fell under the train near here and was ground to pieces. He had a card showing he belonged to an iron workers' union in Illinois.

Fatal Gasoline Explosion.

Evansville, Ind., July 25.—A gasoline tank in the dye department attached to a shop in Third street exploded, wrecking the front end of the building. William Jones, cleaner, was so badly injured that he will die.

M. Fallieres, the president of France, who is on a series of visits to European states, has arrived at Stockholm.

If every Democratic paper acts on Mr. Bryan's advice and becomes a campaign collector, Democrats will have to hustle to find an excuse for not chipping in. "How much do you love your party's principles?" is put squarely up to them all.

It might be supposed, from the noise made by Mr. Bryan on the subject of publishing a list of party campaign contributions, that he represents all the virtue that can be discovered in this connection, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. It was only the other day that he felt called on to explain that neither he personally or his paper received any part of the campaign cash sent to Nebraska four years ago on the strength of the representation to the Parker campaign managers that Bryan would try to carry the Nebraska Legislature as a senatorial candidate. As Nebraska's majority against Parker was no less than $6,000 it must be remarked that whatever became of the money, it was obtained by false pretenses. An immense amount of money was invested in the Bryan campaign fund of 1896 by the silver mining interests, for Bryan's success meant unlimited profits for them.

The worst plague spot in the United States for a campaign corruption fund is Tammany, an organization without which the Democratic party would be in a hopeless condition in the State of New York, and nationally. Tammany rolls in campaign money, a fact that could be guessed from the enormous expenditures and high salary list of New York City, whose debt is rapidly approaching $1,000,000,000. What chances is there that Tammany will ever publish a true statement of its financing of a campaign? Not one dollar in twenty that it spends in political work will ever see the light of print. Mr. Bryan claims that he was beaten by the use of money in 1896 and in 1900, but the popularity against him was first 600,000 and then 800,000, and he must have a low idea of the integrity of the American people if he thinks these verdicts were purchased. The Republican party can better afford to face the publicity issue, both as to past and the present, than can any of the combines with which Bryan has been identified.

We can now all see why the Department of Agriculture predicted an $8,000,000,000 income for the farmers of the United States for 1908. According to the Department's figures for the present conditions of the crops the corn yield for this year will be 2,726,000,000 bushels, as compared with 2,529,000,000 in 1907; wheat will be 693,000,000 bushels, as against 634,000,000 a year ago, and oats will be 1,102,000,000 bushels, as compared with 754,000,000 last year. Gains are also indicated in rye and barley.

Some of these figures break all the records. If the corn harvest turns out to be as large as it is at present indicated we will have the largest yield ever gathered except in 1906, when it was 2,927,000,000 bushels. Prices are higher now, however, than they were then, and the farmer's income from corn will be much larger than it was at that time. The comparative shortage in the crops in business scare of last November and 1907 was one of the reasons why the December was so severe while it lasted. The big crops of 1908 come at a particularly welcome time. The country is recovering from the recent financial reverse. Confidence is being restored all along the line. Large crops will be a factor of immense importance in the business situation.

It is possible, of course, that changes may come between now and the middle of September which may reduce the size of the corn crop. The other cereals are now out of danger.

As the season is two weeks ahead of last year, and as the weather along to this time has been far more favorable than it was then, there is good reason to hope that the present bright corn prospects will be realized. Russia reports a shortage of wheat, but Canada and some of the other countries have large crops. The big yield of 1908 will have two good effects. It will reduce the price of food to consumers, and at the same time it will give the producers a large revenue, and increase their purchasing power of manufactured and other commodities. The good harvests which are foreshadowed and the Taft victory which seems to be in sight, promises the country an early return of that Republican prosperity which we had, without interruption, from 1907 to 1908.

THE "GIDEONS" MEET IN LOUISVILLE.

Louisville, Ky., July 24.—"The Saloon Must Go," is the slogan of the delegates to the ninth annual convention of the Gideons, a national association of Christian commercial traveling men, which was opened in Louisville this morning with a session of the national executive committee. This afternoon the members gathered for a round table conference, at which the principal subject under discussion is methods and plans for bringing about the abolition of the liquor traffic. A demand will also be made that Bibles be placed in every hotel room.

All sections of the country are represented at today's convention, although the organization is especially strong in the northern and western States. This is the first national convention of the body ever held south of the Ohio river.

The Gideons is a purely evangelistic organization and offers no monetary benefits to its members. Restrictions as to membership require that an applicant be a Christian; a member of some evangelical church; one whose chief business is traveling for commercial purposes, and lastly, that he agree to wear the Gideon button as a distinguishing mark by which he may be known by his fellows.

BY THE WAYSIDE

Mosquito stories are ripe now but here's the best yet. Jabez Smith was in Ananias headquarters when he told it so that may throw light on the story. He says there are an awful lot of pesky things down his way.

"Why they nearly drive us crazy," he said. "Oh I tell you they are the biggest mosquitos I ever saw. When they first came around in the spring we heard them out in the trees, and we thought they were sparrows."

Says the Connorsville Courier: Habit is a great thing. A Rushville couple went together for seven years, got married recently and instead of taking a wedding trip they were married in the morning and spent their first evening together in their new home. They sat around the parlor until the clock struck ten. Then the young man arose, put on his hat and hurried out the door. His bride had to follow him out and call him back to remind him that he didn't have to leave. For 365 times during the year he had been leaving in just that manner, and he had momentarily forgotten that there was a difference.

The price of meat has become so exorbitant in Chile because of two dry seasons that the government has temporarily suspended the duty on cattle from Argentina.

When They Tell Taft That He Is "It"

Cincinnati Will Have a Festive and Gala Time Like She Never Had Before

A number of Rushville and Rush county Republicans will journey to Cincinnati next Tuesday when William Howard Taft will be formally notified of his nomination as the Republican candidate for president. Cincinnati has completed arrangement for making the event one of the most noteworthy of its kind ever held. Members of the notification committee will go Sunday and scores of leading politicians will be the guests of Cincinnati at the ceremony.

Senator Warner, of Missouri, will make the notification speech, and it will be so brief that it will not require more than ten minutes for its delivery. Mr. Taft's speech of acceptance will contain about 3,500 words, and in it he will touch upon all the issues in the Republican platform.

All of the planks in the platform, that relating to injunctions will receive greatest attention, inasmuch as criticism from Democratic sources has been made on his record while on the bench, and the two parties having adopted planks on that subject. Mr. Taft, it is said, will declare his position on this important question in forceful and unmistakable terms.

Mr. Taft will assert his independence including in his speech of acceptance a personal plank on publicity of campaign contributions, a proposition which stumped a Republican Congress and which was ignored as an issue by the Chicago convention.

In doing this Mr. Taft will also accept the Bryan challenge to make publicity one of the leading issues in the coming fight, and when his speech of acceptance has been delivered there will be no doubt in Mr. Bryan's mind or in anybody else's how Mr. Taft stands on this question.

Mr. Taft, it is understood, is a little hot over the charge in the Democratic platform that the Republicans intend to conduct the present campaign with "vast sums of money wrested from the favor seeking corporations," and he is prepared to challenge the Democrats to show their good faith by coming in, as the Republicans have, under the operation of the New York State publicity law.

In voluntarily subjecting themselves to that law Mr. Taft and other Republican leaders feel that they have scored a point on the Democrats which will have to be met in some way than in platform promises.

Following the oratorical fireworks, there will be a flag-raising in honor of Mr. Taft, in which those who will pull the halyards will be men who as boys went to school with Mr. Taft. The flag was made with material supplied by the Republicans of the Philippines.

A great fireworks display will be held at night from a bluff on Mount Adams, overlooking the river. This will be the main fireworks display and will include the illumination of the big water tower and the park. A supplementary display will be given on the bridges and public landing. River craft of all kinds on the Ohio will also be supplied with lanterns. A flotilla of about 200 launches will accompany the Island Queen when she makes her trip with Mr. Taft and his wife, the national notification committee and distinguished visitors. Each launch will be illuminated. A daylight fireworks exhibit will be given in the afternoon on Fountain Square together with a band concert. The musical program will be elaborate, Cincinnati will be alive with concerts at various points throughout the day.

Don't need any alarm clocks these mornings with the Franklin county blackberry pickers knocking at your door at sunrise.

It is hard enough now to be a woman, with a cross husband and dishes to wash three times a day, but it is going to be harder. The new sheath corset, made for the directoire gown goes all the way down to the knees, and the woman wearing one can't sit down and couldn't get to a fire on time if it was in the next block.

A Taffety Club

Sister-in-laws of the Lincoln League are under marching orders, or maybe it is sailing orders, since they are going to try to help guide ship of state, as well as rock the world through its cradles.

Mrs. Somebody, of somewhere is organizing a ladies "auxiliary," and its members are to "go gunning" for votes for Big Billy.

Their customs is not yet decided, it may be a "sheath" skirt—sheath of a knife to cut down the Democratic vote.

Or it may be of stuff braided with stripes of sample ballots and ornamented with Taft buttons. It may even be reduced to a peek-a-boo waist with Alice blue under slip and Teddy bear shoulder straps. Or how about hell—an' taft pinafores? There is no lack of variety for uniforms. That is a mere detail to the large fact of the organization, and, says the Richmond Item, this big ladies' organization "will affiliate husband—like the league now organized."

NOT A SINGLE CASE OF TYPHOID FEVER

Unusual Situation Exists in Rush County at Present—Very Little Sickness.

FEVER PATIENTS ARE FEW

Speaking of healthy counties, this is it. Rush county can make a claim that no other county in the State can probably make good at this time. There is not a single case of typhoid fever in the county that local physicians know anything about. At this time of the year there is usually a number of cases reported to the health officers, but not a single case exists at the present time, or at least has never been reported. There is very little sickness of any other kind at the present time either.

EZRA MEEKER IS HOME FROM TRIP

Oregon Pioneer Who Passed Through Rushville With Ox Team Ends Journey.

ACCOMPLISHES HIS PURPOSE

Had Monuments Erected Along the Old Mountain Trail Traversed by the Forty-Niners.

Ezra Meeker, seventy-eight years old, who visited Rushville several months ago with his ox team and for a few days furnished a picturesque and patriarchal figure to the passerby on Main street, has been heard from at his home in Seattle, Wash., under the date of July 18. He left Puyallup, Wash., January 29, 1906, with his ox team, and since that time the old prairie schooner has creaked and rumbled over 4600 miles of American continent. It has also traveled a few hundred miles in a freight car, but Mr. Meeker does not count that.

As is well known, Ezra Meeker started out with the intention of re-crossing the old Oregon trail and of marking the route with permanent monuments.

"The Dave Ox," as Mr. Meeker speaks of his "off" animal, has been "part and parcel" of the trip from the time of the departure for Puyallup to the present date, and Dave weighs about three hundred pounds more than he did when he was rescued from the Tacoma stock yards. Dave's companion died early in the journey and Dandy was purchased in the Omaha stock yards. Both oxen were range steers when Mr. Meeker purchased them and he had to break them to the yoke.

Mr. Meeker arrived in Washington, D. C., twenty-two months after leaving Puyallup and after meeting President Roosevelt he continued on his way to New York city. He returned to the Missouri river by way of Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, St. Joseph and St. Louis, and shipped his team from St. Joseph to Portland, Ore., arriving there June 5. The oxen were driven from Portland to Seattle.

"I have paid the expenses of my trip out of the proceeds of my book, which I wrote on the journey and which was published in Indianapolis," said Mr. Meeker. "The monuments have been paid for by persons along the route."

"What I am working for now," he said, "is the national highway, and with the aid of the public spirited citizens of the country, I'm going to get it."

NATURAL GAS IS COMING BACK

A Better Pressure is Noticeable Throughout the Entire Gas Belt in Indiana.

IS MUCH BETTER LOCALLY

Theory Advanced That There is a Constant Generation of Gas.

After punishing the public for wanton waste of the gift of natural gas in Indiana, Dame Nature seems in a better humor now with her children and there are signs that she will again extend them the blessing in restricted quantity, though enough for domestic uses if properly husbanded. It is reported that the local supply shows improvement and the same report comes from many points in the gas belt where wells that were once gushers were entirely abandoned. The Muncie Star says:

"Natural gas companies in Indiana, following Muncie's example, are thoroughly convinced that the supply of this greatest of all fuels, in this locality particularly, is increasing and, accordingly, are making preparations to improve their systems, many of which were allowed to deteriorate during the slump in the pressure several years ago. They know positively the pressure is rising, following the dismantling of pumping stations and the discontinuance of the use of natural gas by practically all the large manufacturing plants in the State.

"Incidentally this condition goes to show that Henry C. Zeigler, the well known oil and gas man of Muncie and Montpelier, who is president and general manager of the Heat, Light and Power Company, of Muncie, knew what he was talking about several years ago when he offered the theory that natural gas constantly generates, and that after most of the big pumping stations were removed and the factories stopped using the fuel, the pressure would increase very perceptibly and there would be ample natural gas for domestic consumption for many years to come."

Brice Kinney of Marion, gas inspector of Indiana, recently issued a statement in which he gave it as his opinion that gas pressure is very materially increasing in the State, especially in the big gas belt. He said in part: "People are taking care of the gas supply now. There is one of the reasons the pressure is getting better. Gas and oil wells are plugged, too, with greater care and gas isn't thrown away on the surface as it was when it was a very plentiful article years ago and when people did not think its supply would ever diminish."

THE PORT OF MISSING MEN

By MEREDITH NICHOLSON.

Author of "The House of a Thousand Candles"

COPYRIGHT, 1907, BY THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY

The man hurried away, and Armitage slowly followed. It occurred to him that the man might be of use, and with this in mind

"Don't you know me? I am Oscar."

he returned to the New American, got his key from the office, nodded to his acquaintance of the street and led the way to the elevator.

Armitage put aside his coat and hat, locked the hall door, and then, when the two stood face to face in his little sitting room, he surveyed the man carefully.

"What do you want?" he demanded bluntly.

He took a cigarette from a box on the table, lighted it and then, with an air of finality, fixed his gaze upon the man, who eyed him with a kind of stupefied wonder. Then there flashed into the fellow's bronzed face something of dignity and resentment. He stood perfectly erect, with his felt hat clasped in his hand. His clothes were cheap, but clean, and his short coat was buttoned trimly about him.

"I want nothing, Mr. Armitage," he replied humbly, speaking slowly and with a marked German accent.

"Then you will be easily satisfied," said Armitage. "You said your name was—"

"Oscar—Oscar Braunig."

Armitage sat down and scrutinized the man again without relaxing his severity.

"You think you have seen me somewhere, so you have followed me in the streets to make sure. When did this idea first occur to you?"

"I saw you at Fort Myer at the drill last Friday. I have been looking for you since and saw you leave your horse at the hotel this afternoon. You ride at Rock creek—yes?"

"What do you do for a living, Mr. Braunig?" asked Armitage.

"I was in the army, but served out my time and was discharged a few months ago and came to Washington to see where they make the government—yes? I am going to South America. Is it Peru—yes? There will be a revolution."

He paused, and Armitage met his eyes. They were very blue and kind, eyes that spoke of sincerity and fidelity, such eyes as a leader of forlorn hopes would like to know were behind him when he gave the order to charge. Then a curious thing happened. It may have been the contact of eye with eye that awoke question and response between them. It may have been a need in one that touched a chord of helplessness in the other, but suddenly Armitage leaped to his feet and grasped the outstretched hands of the little soldier.

"Oscar!" he said, and repeated very softly, "Oscar!"

The man was deeply moved, and tears sprang into his eyes. Armitage laughed, holding him at arm's length.

"None of that nonsense! Sit down!"

He turned to the door, opened it and peered into the hall, locked the door again, then motioned the man to a chair.

"So you deserted your mother country, did you, and have borne arms for the glorious republic?"

"I served in the Philippines—yes."

"Rank, titles, emoluments, Oscar?"

"I was a sergeant, and the surgeon could not find the bullet after Big Bend, Luzon, so they were sorry and gave me a certificate and $2 a month

Cough Caution

Never, positively never poison your lungs. If you cough—even from a simple cold—only—should always heal, soothe, and ease the irritated bronchial tubes. Don't blindly suppress it with a stupefying poison. It's strange how some things finally come about. For twenty years Dr. Shoop has constantly warned people not to take cough mixtures or prescriptions containing Opium, Chloroform, or similar poisons. And now—a little late though—Congress says "Put it on the label, if poisons are in your Cough Mixture." Good! Very good! Hereafter for the very reason mothers, and others, should insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. No poison marks on Dr. Shoop's labels—and none in the medicine, else it must be on the label. And it's not only safe, but it is said to be by those that know it best, a truly remarkable cough remedy. Take no chance then, particularly with your children. Insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Compare carefully the Dr. Shoop package with others and note the difference. No poison marks there! You can always be on the safe side by demanding to my pay," said the man so succinctly and colorlessly that Armitage laughed.

"You have done well, Oscar; honor me by accepting a cigar."

The man took a cigar from the box which Armitage extended, but would not light it. He held it rather absentmindedly in his hand and continued to stare.

"You are not dead—Mr.—Armitage, but your father?"

"My father is dead, Oscar."

"He was a good man," said the soldier.

"Yes; he was a good man," repeated Armitage gravely. "I am alive, and yet I am dead, Oscar. Do you grasp the idea?"

"You were a good friend when we were lads together in the great forest. If I should want you to help me now?"

The man jumped to his feet and stood at attention so gravely that Armitage laughed and slapped his knee. "You are well taught, Sergeant Oscar! Sit down. I am going to trust you. My affairs just now are not without their trifling dangers."

"There are enemies—yes?" and Oscar nodded his head solemnly in acceptance of the situation.

"I am going to trust you absolutely. You have no confidants—you are not married?"

"How should a man be married who is a soldier? I have no friends. They are unprofitable," declared Oscar solemnly.

"I fear you are a pessimist, Oscar, but a pessimist who keeps his mouth shut is a good ally. Now, if you are not afraid of being shot or struck with a knife, and if you are willing to obey my orders for a few weeks we may be able to do some business. First, remember that I am Mr. Armitage. You must learn that now and remember it for all time. And if any one should ever suggest anything else?"

The man nodded his comprehension.

"That will be the time for Oscar to be dumb. I understand, Mr. Armitage."

Armitage smiled. The man presented so vigorous a picture of health, his simple character was so transparently reflected in his eyes and face that he did not in the least question him.

"You are an intelligent person, sergeant. If you are equally discreet—able to be deaf when troublesome questions are asked, then I think we shall get on."

"You should remember"—began Oscar.

"I remember nothing," observed Armitage sharply, and Oscar was quite humble again. Armitage opened a trunk and took out an envelope, from which he drew several papers and a small map, which he unfolded and spread on the table. He marked a spot with his lead pencil and passed the map to Oscar.

"Do you think you could find that place?"

The man breathed hard over it for several minutes.

"Yes. It would be easy." And he nodded his head several times as he named the railroad stations nearest the point indicated by Armitage.

The place was in one of the mountainous counties of Virginia, fifteen miles from an east and west railway line. Armitage opened a duly recorded deed which conveyed to himself the title to 2,000 acres of land; also a curiously complicated abstract of title showing the successive transfers of ownership from colonial days down through the years of Virginia's splendor to the dread time when battle shook the world. The title had passed from the receiver of a defunct shooting club to Armitage, who had been charmed by the description of the property as set forth in an advertisement and lured, moreover, by the amazingly small price at which the preserve was offered.

"It is a farm—yes?"

"It is a wilderness, I fancy," said Armitage. "I have never seen it. I may never see it, for that matter. But you will find your way there, going first to this town, Lamar, studying the country, keeping your mouth shut and seeing what the improvements on the ground amount to. There's some sort of a bungalow there, built by the shooting club. Here's a description of the place, on the strength of which I bought it. You may take these papers along to judge the size of the swindle."

"Yes, sir."

"And a couple of good horses, plenty of commissary stores—plain military necessities, you understand—and some bedding should be provided. I want you to take full charge of this matter and get to work as quickly as possible. It may be a trifle lonesome down there among the hills, but if you serve me well you shall not regret it."

"Yes, I am quite satisfied with the job," said Oscar.

"And after you have reached the place and settled yourself you will tell the postmaster and telegraph operator who you are and where you may be found, so that messages may reach you promptly. If you get an unsigned message advising you of—let me consider—a shipment of steers, you may expect me any hour. On the other hand, you may not see me at all. We'll consider that our agreement lasts until the first snow flies next winter. You are a soldier. There need be no further discussion of this matter, Oscar."

The man nodded gravely.

"And it is well for you not to reappear in this hotel. If you should be questioned on leaving here?"

"I have not been here—is it not?"

"It is," replied Armitage, smiling.

"You read and write English?"

"Yes, one must to serve in the army."

"If you should see a big Serbian with a neck like a bull and a head the size of a pea, who speaks very bad German, you will do well to keep out of his way unless you find a good place to tie him up. I advise you not to commit murder without special orders. Do you understand?"

"It is the custom of the country," assented Oscar in a tone of deep regret.

"To be sure," laughed Armitage, "and now I am going to give you money enough to carry out the project I have indicated."

He took from his trunk a long billhook, counted out twenty new one-hundred dollar bills and threw them on the table.

"It is much money," observed Oscar, counting the bills laboriously.

"It will be enough for your purposes. You can't spend much money up there if you try. Bacon, perhaps eggs; a cow may be necessary—who can tell without trying it? Don't write me any letters or telegrams and forget that you have seen me if you don't hear from me again."

He went to the elevator and rode down to the office with Oscar and dismissed him carelessly. Then John Armitage bought an armful of magazines and newspapers and returned to his room quite like any traveler taking the comfort of his inn.

NATURAL SOAP.

The Queer Fruit of a Tree That Grows in Algeria.

Soap grows on trees in Algeria. The soap tree is ornamental and reaches a height of fifty feet. It begins to bear fruit when six years old. The wood is close grained, takes a good polish and is admirably suited for furniture. The average income from a tree is $10 to $20 a year. The composition of the fruit consists of a nut shaped hull in which is a seed. In the hull exists the soapy matter in the proportion of 30 to 40 per cent of the bulk of the hull. The soap principle is set free by the shredding of the hull and using it with water just as if it were a piece of soap. A beautiful lather is the result, and the cleansing qualities are such that there is no soap made by human process that can compare with them. For toilet purposes the same applies. The hull can be made into a powder and the powder into a cake, so as to make the use of it easier. It can also be made into a liquid for hair wash, dentifrice and various other preparations. Seeds of the Algerian soap tree have been imported to the United States, and soap trees have been discovered in Florida indigenous to the soil. The seed has a kernel which contains a fixed oil in every respect preferable to the best imported olive oil, either for eating or culinary purposes, and also for all kinds of industrial products in which the olive oil is used. The yield in oil is twice that of the olive fruit.—Baltimore American.

New Airship Successful.

Aldershot, July 25.—The new airship for the British army made the first of a series of trials yesterday afternoon. The flight was a brief one but successful. The airship did a circle of two miles over the common at a height of 500 feet and then described a figure eight in order to test its steering apparatus.

DIPLOMATIC INQUIRY

Novel Point Raised in Connection With New Virginia Law

Richmond, Va., July 25.—The Italians of the city recently filed a protest against the ordinance of the city council which reduced the number of saloons in the city to 150, as a result of which many of them, along with members of other nationalities, lost their licenses. The protest was laid before the Italian ambassador who is at Manchester, Mass., and was by him referred to the secretary of state at Washington, who took up the matter with Governor Swanson in a letter received today. The ambassador calls attention to the treaty of 1871 with Italy which stipulates that citizens of that country shall have the same rights to do business as enjoyed by American citizens. Governor Swanson at once gave the matter attention and collected the ordinances and the state laws and forwarded them to the secretary of state at Washington, for the Italian ambassador. The ambassador has been misinformed as to several of the points he raises in his letter to Secretary Root. The ordinances of the city require that no woman or minor shall be allowed to engage in the liquor business and the state laws provide that only registered voters shall be allowed to engage in the business or serve liquor to customers. The controversy may involve a delicate point as to the provisions and scope of the Byrd law and treaty obligations.

Tragic Death of Henry Dixon Creates Suspicion That Desire for Revenge

Wait for the Watchman Whose Attention to Duty Probably Saved

Young Girls From Horrid Fate at Ruthless Hands.

Bedford, Ind., July 25.—Coroner Voyles has returned from Fort Ritner, where he had been summoned to investigate the tragic death of Henry Dixon, the watchman found dead in the big tunnel of the B. & O. S. W. railway. The investigation is not yet concluded, as the testimony of the engineer of the last train passing through the tunnel is yet to be taken. The coroner says there had been trouble for a week between the dead man and some Italian laborers, the latter making threats against Dixon, who had overheard a plot to waylay some young girls, and prevented it. Dixon had not been robbed, as first reported, for in his pockets were found his watch and $9 cents in money. There is but one wound on top of his head, which looks as if it had been made by a blow. The fact that the body was found nearly 300 feet from where Dixon should have signaled the train supports the murder theory that he was killed while making his way to the point of duty. The Italians are under surveillance, and arrests may follow.

SHOT WIFE AND SELF

Muncie Man Despondent Over Long Enforced Idleness.

Muncie, Ind., July 25.—A corset stay saved the life of Mrs. Frank Williams, when her husband, despondent because he had been out of employment for months, shot three times at his wife and then ended his own life with two bullets in the breast. One of the bullets struck Mrs. Williams above the heart, but the steel stay deflected it, and she only suffered a slight flesh wound. She ran from the house, Williams still firing at her, and then he turned the weapon upon himself, firing twice. The first wound would have been fatal. Williams was fifty-five years old and his wife forty-seven. They came here from Newcastle several months ago, when work in a factory there became slack, and they have since been living with their son George, a printer employed on a local newspaper, and the young man's wife. For weeks Williams has brooded because he was unable to obtain employment here, although persons all about him seemed to be able to obtain work. It was feared he would do something rash.

Williams took down a revolver and pretended to be cleaning it.

"You had better put up that revolver," said Mrs. Williams.

"You and I had better go first," he replied, as he turned the weapon upon her and began firing.

The Williamses had always lived happily together, and never had quarreled. Relatives say that he undoubtedly was temporarily insane because for the first time in his life he was unable to care suitably for his wife, for whom he entertained great affection.

An Editorial Outing.

Indianapolis, July 25.—The Democratic editors of Indiana will convene at the Grand hotel, Indianapolis, July 30, at which time a reception will be given to the Hon. Thomas R. Marshall, nominee for gubernatorial honors. On the morning of July 31, the entire party will leave by special cars for Fairview, where Mr. Marshall will address the editors on the "Duties of the Press Toward the Party." No politics. At 1 p. m. there will be a banquet at N. J. Hyde's pavilion, after which the party will enjoy themselves with the several amusements at the park, and return to their homes by the electric interurban lines.

Costly Blaze at Walkerton.

Walkerton, Ind., July 25.—Fire destroyed the livery barn owned by Jack and Curt Wolfenbarger, with contents, which included thirteen head of valuable road horses. The loss is $3,500, and no insurance. The warehouse attached to Hyman & Dupler's store, with contents, was also consumed; loss, $1,500; so also the residence owned by Postmaster Turner.

In Trouble With Uncle Sam.

Bloomington, Ind., July 25.—Roscoe Byers, a young man of Swiss City, was brought before United States Commissioner McPeeters here, charged with selling "malt liquors" without a United States revenue license. He waived examination and went to jail to await trial Monday. Byers was selling a variety of malt liquor with over one-half per cent of alcohol.

Firm cables and additional reports of damage to the growing crop in the Northwest caused strength in the Chicago wheat market.

LIEBER'S LIE NAILED
City of Lebanon "Dry" and Prosperous, but Not "Dead."

"Many signs indicate that the wave
of prohibition is receding in Indiana.
The merchants and bankers of Lebanon have expressed themselves." So spoke Albert Lieber, the big brewer
and anti-Bryan Democrat who is now foretelling the election of Hon. Thos.
R. Marshall as governor this year. He talked much and loudly through his hat to a reporter. He put his foot in it when he became particular and gave one alleged instance of proof of his statements and spoke the second sentence in this article. He has reason to be sorry he spoke. Facts in Lebanon refute his allegations and other cities have had the same experience as the Boone county capital. Demetrius Tillotson is an eminent citizen there. He knows the town and its condition "before and after taking."
He read what Lieber said and in commenting on it he came back with this
among other good things:

"Mr. Lieber seems to base his hopes that the prohibition wave in Indiana is receding on conditions in our own city of Lebanon. We are curious to know who his informant could have been. He says:

"Merchants and bankers of Lebanon have expressed themselves.' Yes, they have, but it was in a different way from what Mr. Lieber seems to think. The presidents of all our banks signed remonstrances and over 100 of our business men did likewise and more than a score of those who did not have expressed a willingness to do so in the future. Only a few days ago
one of our leading merchants said:
'I did not sign the remonstrance, but the saloons are out now and I will sign to keep them out.'

"We venture the statement that nothing has happened in Lebanon in years that has met with the enthusiastic approval of the people to the same degree that has the abolishment of the saloons. It was said that business houses would be vacant, but with sixteen new business rooms built in the last four years, and four vacant rooms when the remonstrances were circulated, and ten saloons gone out of business, we now have just two business rooms that are not rented in our city. It was said that business would decline and that a 'dry' town was a 'dead' town, but the almost universal testimony of our merchants is that in spite of general panic conditions throughout the country business has increased.

"Our factories are all running, many homes are happier and a spirit of prosperity pervades the people. We have had some people who have endeavored to make illegal sales, but most of them came up at this term of court and paid
good, healthy fines.

"Interurban cars run every hour in three different directions to cities that still have saloons, yet in spite of this fact our sheriff's books show that in April, May and June of this year we have had thirteen arrests for drunk against fifty-one arrests for drunk during the corresponding months of a year ago, when our saloons were open.
Some of the thirteen were arrested
when they got off the interurban car.
In one month last year we had forty arrests for drunk, and the most we have had in any month since the saloons went out were five."

NEEDED ON THE STUMP.

Naturally there is regret among the thousands of men and women who attend the Chautauqua sessions throughout the country each summer over the fact that Congressman Watson has canceled practically all his engagements at the assemblies this year. He is one of the most popular of Chautaqua speakers. But this summer,
now that he is his party's popular candidate for governor of Indiana, he has duties that call him to devote his time to the campaign. The Republican state committee has called on him to work actively for the party's success in November. He is the best political campaigner in this state or many states, and it is fitting and necessary that he be conscripted for the strenuous fight about to begin in Indiana.

Mr. Watson was happy to honor the call to arms of the state committee and has canceled his other speaking engagements. The Chautauquas will suffer, but the state will be the gainer.
He had to cut some forty dates outside of Indiana and a few for Chautauquas in this state. He will devote his time to making campaign speeches and will avoid appearing on platforms of associations which charge admission to hear him.

He is being assigned to speak about every day, and on some days two or three times, during the campaign.

These are the facts as to the cause
that has filled Chautauqua managements' patrons with sorrow. But they have been twisted and falsified and used as a text for a miserable attack on the Republican gubernatorial candidate by political opponents who hate to know Jim Watson's power on the platform and before people, and would like to know that he was to talk all summer on abstract subjects before women and children and old men who attend Chautauquas. All popular lecturers when running for political office have to limit their activities to the campaign stump, where only politics are called for. A little sorehead editor in Jim Watson's own district started the lie on its rounds among the Democratic papers of the state, most of whose men readers really know the facts and their natural cause. That's all.

why it is the best of personal and family

It acts pleasantly and naturally and

A Chinese Superstition.
When a Chinese baby takes a nap
people think its soul is having a rest—going out for a long walk perhaps. If the nap is a very long one the mother is frightened. She is afraid that her baby's soul has wandered too far away and cannot find its way home. If it doesn't come back, of course the baby will never awaken. Sometimes men are sent out into the streets to call the baby's name over and over again, as though it were a real child lost. They hope to lead the soul back home. If a baby sleeps while it is being carried from one place to another the danger of losing the soul along the way is very great. So whoever carries the little one keeps saying its name out loud, so that the soul will not stray away. They think of the soul as a bird hopping
along after them.

A Fox's Stratagem.

A fox is bound to be a thief whenever he has half a chance to steal, says London Answers. He can no more help taking a goose than a badly trained cat can help taking a chop from the larder. There was a tame fox that was chained in a yard to keep him out of mischief, but he soon hit upon a plan for seizing a stray duck or fowl.
At the very farthest point to which his chain would reach he used to place a portion of his food and then hide himself in his kennel. In due course a silly chicken was sure to spy the bait and begin pecking at it. Before it had had time to enjoy its meal, however,
the fox would pounce upon it and the stock of poultry be reduced by one.

When Not to Smoke.
It is quite certain that much may be done to diminish the risk of tobacco amblyopia by paying attention to certain points of personal hygiene. For instance, a rule should be made never to smoke upon an empty stomach, but as far as possible only after meals. It is absolutely bad to smoke before dinner and equally bad to smoke late at night to keep awake at one's work. It should also be forbidden to chew the cigar between the teeth, as many smokers are wont to do.—Hospital.

UPLIFT FOR FARMERS

How President Roosevelt Would Restore Rural Conditions.

COMMISSION TO PAVE WAY.

Will Seek Means to Check Shrinkage
in Farming Population—Hopes to Elevate Soil Tillers to Standard Occupied Before Civil War.

President Roosevelt is about to inaugurate a movement which promises to exert a tremendous influence upon the social and the economic life of the people. Immediately after the adjournment of congress he will appoint a commission for the purpose of making a thorough study of rural social economy with a view to giving a new direction and a new impulse to the institutions which are in operation for the benefit of the farmer, says John Callan O'Laughlin in the Washington Post.
The commission will consist of Professor Liberty H. Bailey of the University of Cornell, probably Professor A.
A. Noyes, acting president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and Gifford Pinchot, chief forester of the government.

The inspiration for this investigation is found in the speech delivered by the president at Lansing, Mich., a year ago at the semicentennial celebration of the founding of agricultural colleges in the United States. The president's investigation convinced him that the educational system in use has been well high wholly lacking on the side of industrial training, of the training which fits a man for the shop and the farm. He declared then that the country must develop a system under which each individual citizen should be trained so as to be effective individually as an economic unit and fit to be organized with his fellows, so that he and they could work in efficient fashion together.

The president holds there is but one person whose welfare is as vital to the welfare of the whole country as that of the wageworker who does manual labor, and that is the farmer. In the past the United States during times of crises has had to place a peculiar dependence upon the farming population, but this cannot be done in the future if agriculture be permitted to sink in the scale as compared with other employments. Investigation has shown that in the eastern half of our country there has been an actual shrinkage in the number of the farming population since the civil war. A growth of population has occurred in this section, but the growth has been in the cities. Certain economic factors, such as extension of railroads, development of machinery and openings for industrial success, have been responsible for the urban increase.

As an offset to the tendencies which have told against the farm there have come various improvements which have rendered country life more easy and pleasant. But there has been a social as well as an economic falling off, and the president wants this condition not only arrested, but entirely done away with. He wants our farms to be worked by the same self respecting independent and essentially manly and womanly men and women such as in the past he holds constituted the most valuable element of the nation.

He proposes to give every encouragement to the growth in the open farming country of such institutional and social movements as will meet the demand of the best type of farmers. He would like to see more libraries, assembly halls and social organizations of all kinds. He wants the school buildings and the teachers to be of the very highest type and the country church revived. He is anxious that all kinds of agencies, from rural free delivery to the bicycle and the telephone, should be utilized to the largest extent.

Remarkable results have been achieved by the department of agriculture in the production of raw material, but the president believes this department has a large field of usefulness in the fostering of agriculture to bring about the best kind of life on the farm for the sake of producing the best kind of men. The commission will answer,
among other things, these questions:

How can the life of the farm family be made less solitary, fuller of opportunity,
freer from drudgery, more comfortable,
happier and more attractive?

How can life on the farm be kept on the highest level and where it is not already on that level be so improved, dignified and brightened as to awaken and keep alive the pride and loyalty of the farmer's boys and girls, of the farmer's wife and of the farmer himself?

How can a compelling desire to live on the farm be aroused in the children that are born on the farm?

Among the subjects which the commission also will investigate are rural education, rural organization, rural communication, control of corporations, land settlements and labor supply. Under communication, for example, will come an examination of the way in which there can be improvement in express and railroad service, of highways, mails, telephone and telegraph.
There will be an exhaustive inquiry into the means of improving agricultural colleges and farmers' institutes, which already have done much for instruction and inspiration. It is imperative in the view of the president and Mr. Pinchot that there should be combinations among the people of the farming regions in order that they may be able to protect their industry from the highly organized interests around them.
The commission will endeavor to point the way to the farmer to get the best kind of labor.

In a word, the commission will consider not only the physical but the ethical needs of the people and will give impetus to the movement to provide a fair standard of physical comfort, and social and intellectual advantages.

CAMP ALGONACERS ARE GETTING READY

Big Crowd Will Leave Monday Morning on the Daily Republican Special.

TO STOP NEAR RACE TRACK

Packing grips, trunks, boxes and borrowed telescopes and saratogas was the order of business in Rush county today, for the big outing party leaves Monday morning at 6:40 o'clock via the Big Four on the Daily Republican Special to Camp Algonac for an eight days' stay.

It has every promise of being the cheapest and most delightful summer excursion that ever left this vicinity. Those who are not sure of going can complete arrangements Monday morning, but the Republican office will be kept open until a late hour tonight where tickets will be sold and camp reservations made. The crowd from here is far greater than was expected by the management.

Five dollar excursion tickets to Detroit will be sold for the special train which will land the race goers there in time for the Monday afternoon meeting. The train will be stopped at a convenient place to allow such passengers to get off if they desire, near the race track.

TAFT WILL BE HERE - ON NEXT TUESDAY

Will Pass Through Rushville at 7:20 O'clock on a C. H. & D. Special.

MAKE A BRIEF STOP HERE

The Hamilton Republican-News says:

Mr. Taft will leave New York on his homeward journey next Monday. He will pass through Hamilton next Tuesday from Indianapolis. However, his train will not stop here but will continue to Cincinnati. Mr. Taft will travel via the C. H. & D. road. His train will make three stops enroute from Indianapolis to Cincinnati. It will leave the Indianapolis Union Station at 6:30 o'clock in the morning. The first stop will be made at Rushville at 7:20 a. m. The second stop will be at Connorsville at 7:45. The third and last stop will be made at Liberty at 8 o'clock. Mr. Taft will return to Indianapolis by the same road and his train will pass through Hamilton late Tuesday evening.

AMUSEMENTS

In spite of the rain last night good crowds attended the Vaudeville theater, and were well paid for going. The two films, "Misadventures of a Sheriff," and "Music and Poetry," are extremely good ones and will be repeated tonight.

The rain storm last night did not prevent a large crowd from attending the performance of the four-act rural comedy, "Farmer Hopkins" at the Grand theater last night. And every patron was well pleased. Mr. Hill had the lead comedy role and made good with it. Miss Gray was an instant hit as "Pansy Homer" and the audience liked her. Taking it all around—with the pictures and illustrated song—it was the best show ever given here for ten cents.

Time is apparently of more importance in New York than in any other city in the world, for this city displays more public clocks than London and Paris combined.

SOCIETY NEWS

The young ladies of the Social Club will give a dinner-dance next Wednesday evening.

Robert Mitchell, clerk at the C. H. & D. office here, and Miss Minnie Beeraft of New Salem will be married tonight at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Mitchell. Rev. Roscoe Smith will perform the ceremony. They will reside in this city.

No Ray of Hope Or Hope of Ray

Editor Ray of the Shelbyville Liberal says: Ringling Brothers will not advertise in the Liberal, the advertising rate was too high. But the price of "reserved" seats will be $1.00 to Shelby county farmers who wish to see the circus in addition to the charge of 50 cents to see the show. The new rule of the present day show managers is to force people, who expect to see the exhibition to pay an extra big charge for a "reserved" seat, or take a "general" admission seat and see nothing. There is where the profits of the present day circuses lies. Years ago every farmer saw all the exhibition for one ticket, now he is forced to buy a second reserved seat ticket for double price if he expects to see any of the exhibition. Yet the Ringling show wanted "cheap" newspaper space and at the same time it wants to rob the people and take away all the spare change of those who are "circus" struck. This item is free.

—Mrs. J. E. Fish and son Russell of Indianapolis are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Smith of North Jackson street and will go to Algonac on the Daily Republican excursion Monday.

HIS HORSE WAS STOLEN.

Locking the stable after the horse is stolen is about as sane an act as trying to grow hair after the head is bald.

If the hair root be absolutely dead, permanent baldness will be your lot, and you might as well cheer up and tell your friends that it isn't so bad after all, as to bemoan your fate.

But if your hair is just beginning to thin out; if the thought occurs to you that in a year or two you can take your seat in the bald-headed row without being asked for credentials, then you've got a chance.

If your hair is falling out or thinning out, don't wait another day; go to F. B. Johnson & Co., the druggists, and get a bottle of Parisian Sage, the most efficient hair grower the world has ever known.

Don't say, "It's the same old story; I've heard it before," but try a bottle at F. B. Johnson & Co.'s risk. They guarantee Parisian Sage to grow hair, to stop falling hair, to cure dandruff, and stop scalp itch in two weeks, or money back.

Parisian Sage is the most invigorating hair dressing made. It is antiseptic; it kills all odors that are bound to arise from excretions of the scalp during the hot months, and everyone knows that sage is very cooling to the scalp.

Parisian Sage is a prime favorite with discriminating ladies, because it makes the hair lustrous and luxuriant. Get a large bottle from F. B. Johnson & Co. for only 50 cents, or by express all charges prepaid, from the American makers, Giroux Mfg. Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Sale Of Tickets Will Continue.

Through the courtesy of the Big Four officials, The Daily Republican is able to extend the date for purchasing tickets for the Camp Algonac excursion to Saturday, July 25th, at 10 p. m. when the sale will positively stop, and no refund for tickets can be made after that time. The extension was asked in order to accommodate quite a number who have expressed a desire to go, but have not been able to complete arrangements for a leave of absence, while some desired the company of friends who are yet undecided.

The Daily Republican emphasizes the fact that under no consideration could this paper offer to its readers the great eight days' trip to Michigan and Canada at the ridiculously small cost of $13.85 for adults and $8.45 for children without the co-operation of ten of the leading daily newspapers in the United States. By each of these newspapers agreeing to occupy Camp Algonac, on Russell's Island, thirty-seven miles north of Detroit, in the beautiful St. Clair river, for a different period during the summer season, concessions have been secured for The Daily Republican's readers, which represent an expenditure of thousands of dollars.

The period selected for The Daily Republican's outing is eight days, beginning July 27th, which is usually the hottest of the summer season. Those who contemplate going with the party should secure their tickets at once at The Daily Republican office, the only place where they may be purchased. The price of a ticket is $13.85 for the round trip. This includes railroad and steamer transportation both ways, all meals in camp, dry tent with tarpaulin floor, camp chairs, cot and all bed clothes.

Tickets may be purchased at The Daily Republican office until 10 p. m., Saturday, July 25th.
